WHAT IF CAREGIVERS NEED CARE?

Did
You Know

Caregivers are aging, funding cuts continue, and the agencies that administer the public entitlement system are becoming more rigid in their oversight and enforcement. These all combine to raise the bar for those who currently provide care and oversight of family members with disabilities, as well as those who will eventually step in when current family caregivers can no longer do so.

Consider these demographics:

- ▶ The number of people over age 65 will double over the next 30 years (U.S. Census Bureau, 2002). Many of these individuals are parents and other caregivers for individuals with disabilities, and some of them will require family care themselves.
- ▶ Even as the need grows, the pool of family caregivers is dwindling. In 1990 there were 10 potential caregivers for each person needing care. In 2050 the ratio will be 4:1.
- ▶ Nearly 27% of the adult population has provided care for a chronically ill, disabled or aged family member or friend in the past year.
- ▶ In 2002, approximately 2.79 million of the 4.56 million individuals with developmental disabilities in the United States were receiving residential care from family caregivers, and an estimated 25% of these caregivers were over age 60.
- ▶ Between the 1970s and the mid-1990s, the mean life expectancy for individuals with developmental disabilities increased from 59 to 66 years. It is anticipated that people with developmental disabilities, particularly those with less severe impairments, will soon have a lifespan equal to that of the general population.
- ▶ In 2000, an estimated 641,000 adults age 60 and older had been diagnosed with mental retardation and other developmental disabilities; this number will double by 2030.

Shortbread Hearts

Treat the sweethearts in your life by gifting them with these big red edible hearts. They'll love you for it!

- | | |
|-------------------------------------|--------------------------------|
| 1 cup butter or margarine, softened | 1/4 cup sliced almonds |
| 3/4 cup powdered sugar | 1/4 cup white baking chips |
| 1 teaspoon almond extract | 1 teaspoon shortening |
| 1/4 teaspoon red food color | Small candy hearts, if desired |
| 2 cups all-purpose flour | |

- Heat oven to 350°F. Beat butter, powdered sugar, almond extract and food color in medium bowl with electric mixer on medium speed 2 minutes. Stir in flour and almonds.
- Divide dough in half; cover half and set aside. Place remaining half on ungreased cookie sheet; press into heart shape, about 1/4 inch thick.
- Bake 15 to 18 minutes or until edges just begin to brown. Cool on cookie sheet 25 minutes; carefully remove from cookie sheet to serving platter. Repeat with remaining dough.
- Place baking chips and shortening in microwavable bowl. Microwave uncovered on Medium-High (70%) about 1 minute 30 seconds, stirring every 30 seconds, until chips can be stirred smooth. Drizzle over shortbread. Sprinkle with candy hearts.
